

International Union of Operating Engineers

In the final days of his Administration, President Trump has undermined Davis-Bacon prevailing wages that adversely affects Operating Engineers around the United States. A new policy to exempt construction surveyors from Davis-Bacon prevailing wages was issued with only days left in his presidency, rescinding a 2013 policy that the IUOE successfully advocated the Labor Department to implement.

The change in policy was executed in the dark of night – no public comment, no public review. It is a slap in the face to the hard working men and women of the Operating Engineers and a final gift to non-union construction contractors.

In solidarity,

Engineers Action and Response Network